OPINION AND ORDER

This matter comes before the Court on review of defendants Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint (Doc. #30) filed on March 15, 2023. Plaintiff filed a Response in Opposition (Doc. #34) on April 5, 2023, to which defendants Replied (Doc. #38) on April 24, 2023. The Court previously granted in part and denied in part defendants' Motion to Dismiss (Doc. #15) without prejudice to filing an amended pleading. (Doc. #25.) The First Amended Complaint (Doc. #28) is the operative pleading.

Plaintiff A.D., a resident of Collier County, Florida, alleges that between February 2012 and August 2012 she was a victim of continuous sex trafficking at the La Quinta® by Wyndham Tampa Bay Airport (La Quinta Hotel) in Tampa, Florida. (Id., ¶¶ 4, 10, 23, 31.) The First Amended Complaint (FAC) asserts a one-count claim against Cavalier MergerSub LP f/k/a CorePoint Lodging, Inc. (CPLG)<sup>1</sup>, CPLG FL Properties, LLC f/k/a LQ FL Properties (CPLG FL)<sup>2</sup> (collectively the CPLG Defendants), Wyndham Hotels & Resorts Inc. (Wyndham)<sup>3</sup>, La Quinta Holdings (LQH)<sup>4</sup>, La Quinta Management L.L.C. (LQM), and La Quinta Franchising LLC (LQF) (collectively the LQ Defendants) for violation of the Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act of 2008 ("TVPRA"), 18 U.S.C. § 1595. (Id., p. 41.) All the Defendants argue that dismissal is appropriate because the FAC does not comply with the pleading requirements set forth in Doe v. Red Roof Inns, Inc., 21 F.4th 714 (11th Cir. 2021). (Doc. #30, p. 2.) For the reasons set forth below, the motion is granted.

I.

Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a)(2), a complaint must contain a "short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2). This obligation "requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do." Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (citation omitted). To survive dismissal, the factual allegations must be "plausible" and "must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Id. at 555; see also Edwards v. Prime Inc., 602 F.3d 1276, 1291 (11th Cir. 2010). This requires "more than an unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (citations omitted).

In deciding a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss, the Court must accept all factual allegations in a complaint as true and take them in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 94 (2007), but "[l]egal conclusions without adequate factual support are entitled to no assumption of truth," Mamani v. Berzain, 654 F.3d 1148, 1153 (11th Cir. 2011) (citations omitted). "Threadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not suffice." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678. Factual allegations that are merely consistent with a defendant's liability fall short of being facially plausible. Chaparro v. Carnival Corp., 693 F.3d 1333, 1337 (11th Cir. 2012) (citations omitted). Thus, the Court engages in a two-step approach: "When there are well-pleaded factual allegations, a court should assume their veracity and then determine whether they plausibly give rise to an entitlement to relief." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 679.

II.

The TVPRA is a criminal statute that also provides a civil remedy to victims of sex trafficking. Section 1591(a) of the Act imposes criminal liability for certain sex trafficking:

(a) Whoever knowingly--

(1) in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce, or within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States, recruits, entices, harbors, transports, provides, obtains, advertises, maintains, patronizes, or solicits by any means a person; or

(2) benefits, financially or by receiving anything of value, from participation in a venture which has engaged in an act described in violation of paragraph (1), knowing, or, except where the act constituting the violation of paragraph (1) is advertising, in reckless disregard of the fact, that means of force, threats of force, fraud, coercion described in subsection (e)(2), or any combination of such means will be used to cause the person to engage in a commercial sex act, or that the person has not attained the age of 18 years and will be caused to engage in a commercial sex act, shall be punished as provided in subsection (b).

18 U.S.C.A. § 1591(a). In addition to a criminal punishment, the TVPRA provides the following civil remedy:

(a) An individual who is a victim of a violation of this chapter may bring a civil action against the perpetrator (or whoever knowingly benefits, financially or by receiving anything of value from participation in a venture which that person knew or should have known has engaged in an act in violation of this chapter) in an appropriate district court of the United States and may recover damages and reasonable attorneys fees.

18 U.S.C. § 1595(a).

Thus, the TVRPA authorizes a victim of sex trafficking to bring a direct civil claim against the perpetrator of the trafficking and a "beneficiary" civil claim against "whoever knowingly benefits, financially or by receiving anything of value from participation in a venture which that person knew or should have known has engaged in an act in violation of [the TVPRA]." 18 U.S.C. § 1595(a). To state a claim for beneficiary liability under the TVPRA, Plaintiff must plausibly allege that Defendants "(1) knowingly benefited (2) from participating in a venture; (3) that venture violated the TVPRA as to [A.D.]; and (4) [Defendants] knew or should have known that the venture violated the TVPRA as to [A.D.]." Red Roof Inns, Inc., 21 F.4th at 726.

III.

Defendants assert that the FAC fails to plead sufficient facts to plausibly allege any element of the TVPRA claim. (Doc. #30, pp. 6-19) The Court addresses each element in turn.

A. "Knowingly Benefitted"

To satisfy the first element of a TVPRA beneficiary claim, plaintiff must allege that defendant "knew it was receiving some value from participating in the alleged venture." Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 724. As the Eleventh Circuit stated,

"Knowingly benefits" means "an awareness or understanding of a fact or circumstance; a state of mind in which a person has no substantial doubt about the existence of a fact." Knowledge, Black's Law Dictionary (11th ed. 2019). And Section 1595(a) explains that a defendant may benefit "financially or by receiving anything of value." Accordingly, a plaintiff like the Does must allege that the defendant knew it was receiving some value from participating in the alleged venture.

Id. at 723-24. In the absence of a more stringent statutory pleading requirement, knowledge "may be alleged generally." Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). The FAC alleges that the "LQ Defendants knowingly benefited or received something of value from their participation in a hotel venture which they knew or should have known facilitated sex trafficking through, inter alia, royalty payments, licensing fees, and percentages of the gross room revenue which the LQ Defendants are entitled to under operating and/or franchise agreements." (Doc. #28, ¶ 22j.) The FAC further alleges that "[t]he LQ Defendants benefit financially from room rentals and other incidentals recognized through renting rooms at the La Quinta Tampa Bay Airport in which the Plaintiff was commercially sex trafficked." (Id., ¶ 22k.) The Court has found that similar allegations are sufficient to satisfy the first element, see S.Y. v. Naples Hotel Co., 476 F. Supp. 3d 1251, 1257 (M.D. Fla. 2020), and that less robust allegations are insufficient, A.D. v. Holistic Health Healing, Inc., 2:22-cv-641-JES-NPM, 2023 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32258, 2023 WL 2242507, *2-3 (M.D. Fla. Feb. 27, 2023). While the Defendants raise factual disputes, resolution of those disputes is beyond the proper scope of a motion to dismiss. The Court finds that this element has been sufficiently pled as to the LQ Defendants, but not with respect to the CPLG Defendants.

B. "Participation" In A "Venture"

Defendants argue that the Complaint fails to plausibly allege that the CPLG Defendants and LQ Defendants "participated" in a sex trafficking "venture" that it "knew or should have known violated the TVPRA" as to A.D. (Doc. #30, pp. 8-12.) Defendants assert that the alleged facts are insufficient to show that they even knew of or interacted with Plaintiff or her traffickers, much less that it "participated" in a "venture" in violation of the TVPRA. (Id., pp. 10-12.)

Plaintiff must allege that the benefit(s) received by Defendants was from "participation in a venture" which Defendants knew or should have known has engaged in an act in violation of the TVPRA as to A.D. 18 U.S.C. § 1595(a). The Eleventh Circuit rejected the statutory definition of "participation in a venture" found in the criminal provision, § 1591(e)(4), which defined

"participation in a venture" as "knowingly assisting, supporting or facilitating a violation of subsection (a)(1)." Instead, the Eleventh Circuit held that "participation in a venture" in the civil context requires that plaintiff allege that the franchisor "took part in a common undertaking or enterprise involving risk and potential profit." Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 725. A complaint must plausibly plead both "participation" and a "venture."

As in Red Roof Inns, the Court begins with the description of the venture A.D. alleges. Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 726. The sex trafficking violation of the TVPRA with respect to A.D. began in November 2011 when a man not identified in the FAC "took advantage of her innocence and forced her into a sexual encounter" under the guise of a loving relationship and "would soon traffick [sic] her in hotels throughout Central Florida." (Doc. #28, ¶ 49.) A second trafficker soon became involved, and A.D. became the victim of sex trafficking at Defendants' hotel approximately between April and August 2012. (Id. at ¶¶ 50-53.) A.D. was forced to perform commercial sex acts at the La Quinta Hotel for three months. (Id. at ¶¶ 4, 53.) During this time, there was a "parade of unregistered male guests" coming to A.D.'s hotel room and A.D. was sexually exploited numerous times. (Id. at ¶ 56.) Defendants "continued to operate a venture which enabled, harbored, held, facilitated, . . . the repeated and continuous trafficking, exploitation, and victimization of A.D. for their own benefit."

(Id. at ¶ 8.) This venture was “in violation of the TVPRA.” (Id. at ¶ 9.)

The FAC alleges that Defendants “actively participated in this illegal endeavor by knowingly or negligently providing lodging in which to harbor A.D. while he was trafficking her.” (Id. at ¶ 61.) The “participation” with A.D.’s traffickers in the criminal activity was further identified as taking no action while A.D. was being trafficked at the hotel (Id. at ¶ 62) and failing to take reasonable measures to stop sex trafficking in the hotel (Id. at ¶ 63.)

As in Red Roof Inns, the Court finds insufficient factual allegations to plausibly establish that Defendants participated in a common undertaking of a sex trafficking venture involving risk or profit. Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 727. The FAC asserts that A.D. was present at the La Quinta Hotel between February and August 2012. The “participation” in the sex trafficking venture is essentially that the alleged parent companies, subsidiaries of the parent companies, and franchisors did not fight hard enough to keep these traffickers from using the hotel. The FAC acknowledges that Defendants opposed sex traffickers, but fault Defendants for taking ineffective steps to curtail the traffickers. This hardly sounds like participating in a venture. This is particularly true of parent companies (i.e., Wyndham, CPLG, and LQH) and subsidiaries/franchisors (i.e., LQM, LQF, and CPLG FL), which have no direct contact with their alleged venture partners. See Red Roof Inns, Inc., 21 F.4th at 726-27 (allegations that the franchisors received royalty fees based on gross room revenue, and supervised, oversaw, or controlled the operation of the renting of rooms at the hotels, showed a financial benefit but not participation in a common undertaking involving risk or profit); C.C. v. H.K. Grp. of Co., Inc., No. 1:21-cv-1345-TCB, 2022 WL 467813, 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 29213, at *11 (N.D. Ga. Feb. 9, 2022) (same); G.G. v. Salesforce.com, Inc., No. 20-cv-02335, 2022 WL 1541408, 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 87616, at *40-41 (N.D. Ill. May 16, 2022) ("In cases involving hotel franchisors, . . . claims that branded hotels rented rooms to people they knew or should have known were engaged in sex trafficking may be "sufficient to state a plausible claim against the specific hotels where [the plaintiff] was trafficked, [but] they do not make a plausible claim that [the franchisors] directly participated in a venture that trafficked [the plaintiff].") (citation omitted)); J.M. v. Choice Hotels Int'l, Inc., No. 2:22-cv-00672-KJM-JDP, 2022 WL 10626493 at *4, 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 190054, at *11 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 17, 2022) (finding no participation in a venture where the franchisor did not directly rent rooms to the sex trafficker, rather franchisee hotels did). "[T]he TVPRA does not impose an affirmative duty to police and prevent sex trafficking." A.B. v. Wyndham Hotels & Resorts, Inc., 532 F. Supp. 3d 1018, 1027 (D. Or.

2021). See also Red Roof Inns, Inc., 21 F.4th at 727 (“[O]bserving something is not the same as participating in it.”); L.H., 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 91756, at *26 (finding that “any local business venture that simply allowed the trafficking by ‘fail[ing] to combat sex trafficking through ineffective policies, procedures, and training for the purpose of maximizing their profit’ was ‘not enough to trigger TVPRA liability.’”); A.D. v. Wyndham Hotels & Resorts, Inc., 4:19CV120, 2020 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 250759, 2020 WL 8674205, at *3 (E.D. Va. July 22, 2020) (“[A] failure to affirmatively prevent or inhibit sex trafficking does not constitute participation.”).

The Court finds that this element has not been plausibly pled in the FAC, which will be dismissed without prejudice.

C. Objective of the Venture

To satisfy the third element, plaintiff must allege that “the venture in which the defendant participated and from which it knowingly benefited must have violated the TVPRA as to the plaintiff.” Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 725. Here, the FAC alleges that A.D. was sex trafficked in violation of § 1591(a). (Doc. #1, ¶¶ 9, 59, 61.) These allegations are sufficiently pled.

D. Knew Or Should Have Known That The Venture Violated The TVPRA As To Plaintiff

The fourth element of a TVPRA beneficiary claim comes from the statutory requirement that the defendant “knew or should have known [that the venture] has engaged in an act in violation of this chapter." 18 U.S.C. § 1595(a). This requires the plaintiff to allege that the defendant had either actual or constructive knowledge that the venture violated the TVPRA as to the plaintiff. Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 725. Thus, Plaintiff must plausibly allege that Defendants at least constructively knew "that the venture in which they participated and from which they benefited violated the TVPRA as to" A.D. Red Roof Inns, 21 F.4th at 725. Since the "participation" and "venture" components are not sufficiently plead, the actual or constructive knowledge of participation in such a venture cannot be plausibly pled either.

Accordingly, it is now

ORDERED:

1. Defendants' Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint (Doc. #30) is GRANTED.
2. The First Amended Complaint (Doc. #28) is DISMISSED without prejudice.
3. Plaintiff is granted leave to file a second amended complaint within TWENTY-ONE (21) DAYS of this Opinion and Order.

DONE AND ORDERED at Fort Myers, Florida, this 25th day of April, 2023.
